25th Sunday in Ordinary Time – September 20th, 2026

Late Bloomers. Fr. Joseph Juknialis
Human beings grow and mature at different paces. Turning twenty-one is no marker of maturity. We’ve all known the ten-year-old whom people say is already an old man because of how he thinks and acts. Just as surely, we’ve known the forty-year-old who still acts and dresses like a teenager. If this is true with human growth, would it not be true as well with growth in faith?
This Sunday’s parable of the landowner who pays all his laborers the same even though they have not all worked the same amount of time often sparks the comment that it’s not good business sense. But the parable is not about business. It’s about how we all come to faith at different times in life, all according to God’s plan, not ours. Why then do some complain about deathbed conversions as being unfair? Who’s to say when someone finally catches up to God’s love and goodness? Too often, human wisdom and divine wisdom spin in different worlds. Pope Benedict XVI once commented on this gospel’s wisdom and how we should be patient with young people as they seek the sacraments. Jesus was patient with us, he said, so we should follow his lead. Federico Lombardi, SJ, the Vatican spokesman for Pope Benedict, reported that the Pope had commented, “I used to be more strict about this, but the example of Christ led me to become more welcoming in cases in which, perhaps, there is not a mature and solid faith, but there is a glimmer, a desire of communion with the Church.”
